(b) Educational Policy

For the past few years many people who have been attempting to read the news of the world with a mind sufficiently open to be impressed by facts, have believed that barbaric forces which have so rapidly gained the upper hand in such a large part of Europe could not be put under safe restraint by those of their immediate neighbors, militarily weak, who were aligned with the principles of what we have been accustomed to speak of as civilization. The peaceful people of the world are coming slowly to the realization that when whole nations with hundreds of millions of people organize their total energy and vast resources for decades for the purposes of destruction and conquest, it takes more than wishful thinking on the part of those peace-loving people who have for years dedicated themselves to the task of learning how to live in peace to so protect themselves that their living habits may continue without disturbance.

The implications of these facts to education are many and extremely complex. The people of the United States have been slowly, very slowly, getting acquainted with the purposes and methods of the totalitarians. As they have been slow to see the implications of European events to their daily living, so the schools have been slow to see the implications to their methods and purposes. When schools closed on Friday, December 5, 1941, they had by no means incorporated into their fiber the full meaning of recent world-shaking events, but when they opened on Monday, December 8, they had one dominant purpose—complete, intelligent and enthusiastic cooperation in the war effort. Educational leaders fully realize that the very existence of free schools, or even a free people, anywhere in the world depends on the achievement of that purpose. They fully realize that this is not a war of armies and navies, not even of the able-bodied, but a war of the whole population, a war where what every individual does, counts, regardless of his age, sex, physical, mental, or moral condition.

How the schools can adapt their programs to this new objective will tax the abilities of the best thinkers of our country. It is clear that many adaptations are required. Many aspects of education will need to be strengthened and extended while others, very important in times of peace, will have to be redirected or modified in order that the total expanded efforts of war-time education may be applied at the point of greatest need.

The following quotation from a pamphlet issued by the Educational Policies Committee of the National Education Association is pertinent. "While the essential work of organized education should not be interrupted or deflected for trifling reasons 'education as usual' will be neither possible nor desirable. Although every activity in the schools may conceivably be related in some way to the war effort, we must decide not only what is important but also what is of first importance. Priorities must be established among educational activities. The responsibilities of organized education for the successful outcome of the war involve at least the following eleven groups of activities: (1) training workers for war industries and services, (2) producing goods and services needed for the war, (3) conserving materials by prudent consumption and salvage, (4) helping to raise funds to help finance the war, (5) increasing effective manpower by correcting educational deficiencies, (6) promoting health and physical efficiency, (7) protecting school children and property against attack, (8) protecting the ideals of democracy against war hazards, (9) teaching the issues, aims and progress of war and of peace, (10) sustaining the morale of children and adults, (11) maintaining intelligent loyalty to American democracy. Without abandoning essential services of the schools, these war duties of the schools should be given absolute and immediate priority in time, attention, personnel, and funds over any and all activities."

Many if not all of these activities have already been begun in the schools of this supervisory union. A defense class in metal work is now operating in the Pittsfield school shop, where several young men are preparing themselves for essential work. Efforts have been made to organize similar work in Alton using the shop facilities there, but sufficient interest has not yet been found to get federal approval. Some modifications have been made in the three regular school shop classes in Pittsfield and in the two agricultural classes in Alton to meet war needs in the training of workers. Even in the rural schools efforts are being made to do something toward the development of the manual abilities that are essential to industrial workers. In the homemaking classes in Pittsfield, Wolfeboro, Alton and Tuftonboro, attempts are being made to cooperate with other agencies in the production of essential needlework. Many girls and some boys are getting a training that is fundamental in carrying on the various kinds of nutritional work and canteen service. All school shops are assisting the local defense committees in such ways as making tables and splints for fractured bones.

Steps are being taken to get all pupils to use school supplies economically in order to conserve as much as possible. All schools are cooperating in the campaign to salvage waste paper to go ultimately into cardboard for military defense purposes. Some schools are saving cancelled postage stamps to be used for military first-aid work. Instruction is being given in the availability of materials for military and civilian defense purposes. The pupils are urged to carry this information home that all may help to conserve those materials that are essential to the war effort.

Pittsfield high school's recent campaign among the students which resulted in the sale in one week of over $400.00 worth of defense stamps and bonds to members of the student body is illustrative of the activities the schools are and will be carrying on to help finance the war.

Efforts are being made to augment former plans for promoting the health and physical efficiency of all pupils. Parents are urged to cooperate as much as possible in the correction of remedial defects, that all pupils may be handicapped as little as possible with defective teeth, hearing, vision, etc. Our school sponsored health clinics have been exceedingly valuable in the past and they will be fully as valuable now. The selective service physical examinations have shown a large proportion of our young men are handicapped with remedial defects. This is a condition which can be corrected, and must be if we as a people are to meet our problems successfully. There is still much to be desired in our physical education program in the school. This program needs to be strengthened radically. This program needs to be much more effective in the correction of the physical defects of the children in the building of strength and vitality. A fully effective intramural sports program for developing health, skill, and strength in all students should be given priority over competition wherein active participation is limited to a few. The program in physical education should reach every child.

Nutrition plays an important part in the development of health and physical efficiency. All girls in the schools from the seventh grade up are being urged to take courses in homemaking. In the rural schools it is difficult to have well organized, effective instruction in homemaking but the rural teachers are being urged to do what they can along this line. The noon hot-lunch being served in nearly all schools in the union serves as an excellent medium for motivating this work.

Surplus commodities are again being furnished to the schools and are an excellent help in seeing that all pupils receive proper nourishment.

Insofar as possible the schools are cooperating with the rest of the civilian population in an organization of civilian self protection so that the armed forces may be left free to seek out and defeat the enemy. It is realized that in this country as elsewhere the enemy will try to throw civilians into panic to thereby weaken military power. We are endeavoring to be prepared for every type of attack, from without and from within. We are endeavoring to train children to face these dangers without losing their heads or their courage. This can be done if we plan in advance to meet those dangers. Panic is caused by the unexpected, for which we have no response ready. A plan for civilian protection is not a sign of timidity, rather it is evidence that we know foresight and preparedness sustain courage. Shelters for the children in case of air-raids are being prepared as fast as resources at our command will permit. Children are being trained to reach those shelters without excitement. Provisions have been made for all schools to receive warning as soon as possible of expected air raids. Schools are being prepared to furnish their own air-raid wardens, incendiary bomb squads, and first aid staffs, within the limits of their abilities. Plans have been discussed with all teachers for sustaining the morale of pupils. Activities are being planned so that children in air-raid shelters will be kept engaged in interesting activities, such as group singing, group games, simple musical and dramatical programs. As the Office of Civilian Defense has issued instructions to keep all children in schools in the event of raids everything is being done to make the children as safe or safer in the schools than they would be at home.

In order to protect the ideals of democracy against war hazards efforts are being made to practice democracy as well as teach it in the schools. Pupil participation in governmental control of the schools is being encouraged. Pittsfield high school has its Student Council. Pittsfield grammar school has its Safety Patrol. Alton high school has its Student Activities Association; and the Carpenter school in Wolfeboro has its Student Cooperative Government and Safety Patrol.

Children in the schools today will be, in a few years, the adults who will be determining the affairs of the nation. The issues, aims, and progress of the war must be taught to them in order that they may be properly prepared to assume their burdens in the years to come. They must be taught to face frankly the mistakes of the United States, England, France, and other anti-Axis countries in the hope that they will not make the same mistakes. They must be taught that the United States is now inseparably bound up in world affairs, that it must never attempt to retreat to a position of isolation. World power has been thrust into the hands of the American people. American citizens must now face this fact and must prepare themselves to assume a leading and responsible role in the peace and reconstruction to follow the war.

Although changes in the schools have been and will continue to be extensive and significant nothing that has been said is intended to indicate that the work of the schools should be in any sense suspended for the duration of the war. The cultural values are part of the heritage which we must respect. Every effort should be made after immediate and genuine emergency demands are met to continue the normal educative processes at full efficiency. Education has moved forward in previous crises, it will do so again. All of the war-related work experience in the schools is being made directly valuable in an educational sense. Never has there been a time when the schools have been called upon to carry such a heavy burden of responsibility. The schools have met their responsibilities in the past and I have full faith that they will continue to meet them. The schools shall meet the call of the crisis and out of the harsh necessities of war shall come a school system more fit for the education of free men.

(b) Methods of Instruction

The reading system used in the first grade during the school year 1940-41 is the result of the most recent and extensive research in the field of reading. The books and seatwork materials are even more attractive and interesting than the older editions and the progress of the pupil is so controlled that a better command of vocabulary is assured. It could be seen that the new system was definitely responsible for the exceedingly low per cent of first grade failures.

The new system is being extended into the second grade this year and it is planned to adopt it for the third grade next year.

PART IV. School Plant

As it was mentioned in the last report, electrical service was made available by the Rural Electrification Administration to the Ridge school last spring.

During the summer both schoolhouses were painted. This was made possible by an unexpected allotment of state aid. This extra money made it possible also to erect a six foot chain link wire fence between the Plains school and the state highway. This safety precaution has been badly needed for some time and will be a great relief to those responsible for the safety of the children.

In this connection I wish to mention two needs that have been discussed to some extent by several who are deeply interested in the total educational offering for the boys and girls: (1) added play space at both schools, but particularly at the Plains, for better health and better physical development and (2) additional room at the Plains for storage of supplies and for practical arts work, foods and nutrition, textiles and sewing, handicrafts, manual training, etc.

The present war emergency makes it doubly important that we do everything possible that will make for the best health of growing children and the training in manual skills that are fundamental in a highly mechanized age.

PART V. Child Accounting and Statistics

(a) Promotions to High School

The following three pupils were promoted to high school in June, 1941: Richard Chase, Arthur Emery and Arlene Hill.

(b) High School Pupils

Twelve pupils, as compared with seventeen the year before, were enrolled in the secondary schools last fall as follows:

Alton high school: Arthur Emery, grade nine; Norma Adams, grade ten; Catherine Emery, Robert Berry, Robert Bickford, grade eleven; and George Wentworth, grade twelve.

Brewster Free Academy: Jean Trowbridge, grade ten.

Farmington high school: Iva Keniston, grade nine; Flora Aiken, Louise Gillen, grade ten.

Rochester high school: Richard Chase, grade nine; Frederick Wood, grade eleven.

Of these twelve pupils, four have left Alton high, one Rochester high, and one Farmington high, and one has transferred from Alton to Rochester.

As it is likely that seven will be entering high school next fall, about $700.00 will be needed for tuition.

(c) Roll of Honor for Attendance

The following five pupils, as compared with seven for 1939-40, were neither absent nor tardy for the school year ending June 30, 1941: Lorene Brackett, (2) Francis Laney, (2) Freda Smith, Walter Thurston, Lurene Wentworth.

A figure before a pupil's name indicates the number of consecutive years he has had perfect attendance.

(d) Statistics For the Year Ending June 30, 1941

(c) Census, September 30, 1941

Enumeration of Resident Children

Part VI. Auxiliary Activities and Special Reports

(a) Report of School Health Work

Ruth S. Langille, School Nurse

Epidemics of measles, mumps and chicken pox occurred in the New Durham schools last year. There were 6 cases of chicken pox reported, 20 cases of measles, and 4 of mumps. In one epidemic many children came down while in school and were taken home, the mothers told about routine treatment and in many cases a terminal inspection on the proper date got the children back in school as early as safe. It was possible for very few to call a doctor.

One case of emergency appendicitis was found and gotten to the hospital for diagnosis and a successful operation. One child was taken to Hanover several times for the treatment and operation of a serious eye condition. Several children were operated upon for tonsils and adenoids in school clinics, and several were checked for change of glasses. Following will be found a list of defects and corrections:

Pupils examined	78
Defects found	115—1.4 per pupil
Defects corrected	27—23% of defects
Without defect	10—12% of pupils
	Defects	Corrections
Underweight (10%)	19	10
Defective vision	11	4
Defective hearing	1
Cardiac disease	3
Defective teeth	47	7
Defective tonsils	30	3
Adenoids	4	3
Glasses already worn		7

A glance at these figures will reveal that New Durham needs a School Dental Clinic program very badly. It is quite probable that an examination by a dentist would reveal that more nearly 100% of the pupils need some dental work than a casual examination has revealed. So far there seem to be no funds available to sponsor this work and very few are able to have dentistry done privately. It would be very difficult to find a dentist who would or could come to New Durham to do the school dental work but it would be worth while to hunt for one if a sponsor could be found for the project.

Because the army and navy recruiting officers have found so many physical defects among inducted men, the National Health Authorities are becoming increasingly interested in the health of all American citizens. It is interesting to note that their figures follow very closely our school figures for defects. Although these health officials are putting great stress on the early correction of defects they are also showing the importance of preventing some of them, especially dental and some eye defects, through a more adequate nutrition. Each town has as part of its defense committee, a nutrition committee putting out a balanced diet chart with the motto "eat what you want after you have eaten what you should". Many people eat what they like best or are accustomed to eat instead of what is best for them, and eating habits once established are hard to break. Most children learn to like what the parents like, but they may be taught very early to like nearly any well prepared food, and American parents are urged to set the children a good example and at the same time to improve their own resistance, morale, and stamina for the big task of national defense, by planning their meals more carefully and eating more of the protective foods.

New Durham is fortunate in having an interested school board and superintendent of schools to plan the regular hot lunch program, using both the Federal Surplus Commodities and W. P. A. Project in hiring a cook to prepare hot school lunches so that a well balanced lunch can be served with the minimum tax upon the teachers. The nutrition of several pupils has been much improved.

Following will be found a report of work in the schools:

Visits to schools	71
Visits to homes	217
Total visits	288

Days spent	14.2
Days due	14

I wish at this time to thank all parents, teachers, and citizens who have cooperated in that school health work we have already accomplished. I am ready and willing to undertake more if ways and means can be found to finance it and there is interest shown in getting more done in the short time available for health work in New Durham.
